Class History

On September 7, 1948, we started out on a four year voyage. We had as our captain, Professor P. S. Jones. Miss D. D. Newkirk, Miss A. Moore and Mr. L. H. Custis were our mates.

There were ninety-three passengers on board when we embarked. Our first stop was to be on the Island of Ignorance. Although it was our first voyage of this kind, our journey to this island was more or less smooth sailing. After sailing for nine months, nevertheless, we reached our destination--The Island of Ignorance, on June 6, 1949.

We remained on the Island of Ignorance from the 6th of June until the 6th of September. During our stay on this island, some of the passengers became seasick and fell overboard.

On September 6, 1949, with the addition of a new captain, Professor W. M. Daniels, Jr., who replaced Professor Jones because of his failing health, and some new mates, Mr. F. Carballo, Mr. E. K. Shipman and Miss W. Kiah, we set out for another island called the Island of Wisdom. It was a long hard, tiresome journey. Some of our passengers became tired of riding and took a ship home while others chose to marry and we sent them home. Some got off at the little islands which we passed. Captain Daniels and his mates did all that they could to comfort the rest of us.

The closer we came to the Island of Wisdom the harder the way grew, but we continued to strive to go forward. Finally on June 5, 1950, we landed. We remained on the Island of Wisdom from the 5th of June till the 5th of September. During our stay on this Island, Captain Daniels thought that, perhaps, the reason that he had lost so many passengers was that he did not have enough mates. Captain Daniels wired for seven more mates. The mates arrived and introduced themselves as Miss J. L. Chavis, Mrs. E. M. Baylor, Miss C. I. Coley, Mr. T. Bellamy, Mr. A. E. Williams, Mr. W. A. Keyes, and Miss E. L. Moore.

With the wisdom that we had secured, the journey seemed easy, although, it was the hardest one that we had undertaken.

Before we knew it, on June 5, 1951, we landed on the Island of Confidence with about fifty passengers. As we completed half of our journey, others became tired of the trip and returned home.

Captain Daniels was pleased with this journey, although he was sad at losing so many passengers.

We remained on the Island of Confidence from the 5th of June until the 4th of September. On the Island of Confidence we became happy and lost all fear, because we felt that if we had come through three journeys we could go through one more.

On September 4, 1951, with a new mate, Miss D. V. Means, we set out with only forty-five passengers. Before we had sailed very far, four new passengers also boarded the ship. The new passengers were Sarah Moore, Grace Flowers, John Rodgers, and John Perry.

We continued to sail. This journey was the happiest of the four. Only two passengers became seasick and returned home before completing the long, long journey.

Captain Daniels asked Miss C. I. Coley and Mrs. N. F. Dowdy, two of our mates, to serve as advisors to his passengers, as we sailed to the Island of Dignity. He also told us that we could elect officers from our own group to help direct our affairs. We, therefore, elected the following officers:

President-----	Grace Flowers
Vice-President-----	John Daniels
Secretary-----	William Midgette
Assistant-Secretary-----	Shirley Spencer
Treasurer-----	Frances St. Clair
Reporters-----	Annie Williams
	Cleaveland Harris

Many of our passengers were active in extra-curricular activities, while we were sailing to the Island of Dignity. Most of us belonged to the Glee Club and the Band. Several of us belonged to the Dramatic Club, NCSIO Club and N. H. A. Chapter. Every organization of the ship could boast of having some of our passengers as its members.

Shirley Spencer who was vice-president of the Student Council, was also Editor-in-Chief of "The Jackets' Gazette." Melba Gibbs was the Associate Editor of the same publication. Serving on "The Jackets' Gazette" staff with Miss Coley were Earlene Jones, Business Manager, Bertha Harper, Annie Williams, Rosa Moore, and Odell Price.

We were not left out on the football field for Wm. Coward, John Daniels, John Perry, who was captain, Charles Austin, James Downing, Herbert Askew, Charles Gorham, James Moore and John Rodgers made a good showing. Also in the realm of basketball were John Daniels, Herbert Askew, Charles Gorham, John Perry, Velma Smith, Thelma Young and Willie Daniels.

We sailed and sailed; but on May 30, 1952, we finally landed on the most beautiful shore that we had seen. It was the Island of Dignity. The passengers rejoiced, as well as the mates and the Captain.

Now, after having reached four islands--Ignorance, Wisdom, Confidence, and Dignity we are to face graduation. This is our last island, or is it really the last? No, it is not. We are looking forward to a much brighter island--the Island of Success and Happiness.

Class Prophecy

It was the witching hour of midnight and the wind was biting shrewdly. Owing to a peculiar circumstance, into the details of which I need not enter, I was returning unescorted, from an amateur concert, which, like all amateur affairs, had dragged its program more than an hour beyond the conventional closing time.

As I stepped upon the sidewalk, the wind was rushing down with the swiftness possessed only by an east wind, and seemed to tell my unprotected ears and cheeks a short, swift story of icebergs on polar seas. A dark and open door loomed ahead of me and toward this I steered as unerringly as a needle to the pole. Once inside the doorway I was safe from the biting wind.

Suddenly I felt a warm glow enveloping my head, and opening my eyes, which I had closed in my momentary joy at finding a refuge from the wind, I saw that a soft, faint light illuminated the dark recess. I turned my head, and to my great astonishment and discomfiture, though not fear, I saw a man standing behind me.

"Good evening, young lady," he said, "don't be alarmed," in courteous, well modulated accents, "I was only trying my Prophoscope, and I perceive that you have something weighing very heavily on your mind".

Before I could answer I heard a faint click, the warm glow left my head and the soft light was withdrawn. "Ah", I said in reply, "you have, indeed, discerned something of my troubles. When I tell you that I am Prophetess of my class, whose graduating exercise come within a few days, can you wonder that my mind was distressed? The day after tomorrow I must read my prophecies to the class, and yet, not a word, mind you, not one word, is written, or even thought of!"

"Ah", went on the cultured voice, "then let me help you. Do you suppose that you can secure a photo of each member of the class, also the date of each birthday, during tomorrow morning?"

"Oh, I'm sure I can," was my prompt answer, "but of course I do not have any way of paying you for your time and trouble."

"Now child, do not mention pay, I am not approaching this matter from a commercial angle, I simply want to test my new invention, the Prophoscope. If it should succeed, my fortune and fame are assured."

I asked him to come to my home the following afternoon. He took a calling card and departed.

All the following morning was spent collecting the photographs of my class mates and learning the date of each one's birthday. I began this task at eight o'clock and returned home to find that the unknown man had arrived and was ready to begin work. His proceedings were without deviation throughout. At first he figured on the date given with each photograph, then, he fastened his prophoscope to the photo, placed his eyes at the peephole in the machine, and reeled off rapidly the events there visible to him. These visions as he repeated them, I took in shorthand, and now in order I give them to you in transcribed form.

First, we have two young gentlemen who are outstanding in sports. It is not surprising to me that they will go pro in a few years. I see them playing basketball with the famous Harlem Globetrotters. They are none other than Mr. Charles Gorham and Mr. Herbert Askew. They are more prominently known as "Moon" and "Eagle Foot" respectively.

The young lady, who has always been ready to carry on any duty put before her, is Miss Shirley Spencer. She will eventually direct a class of Seniors herself. Her husband will be very proud of her.

Miss Margaret Foye, seemed very lonesome after her pal, Miss Lila Reeves married. But Lila has nothing on her now because Margaret is also married and the two couples are living in New York.

My! My! The two girls, who, by all means will have to part I suppose in the near future, will become happily married and have someone else to tell their troubles to are none other than Miss Melba Gibbs and Miss Earlene Jones. Oh! a sad day to part.

Miss Dorothy Jones, the future, Broadway actress, will in 1960, become one of the famous stars in "Madame Butterfly."

Miss Pearlle Moore and Miss Sarah Moore, childhood pals, who were born only three days apart, will have to part. Two gentlemen will come between them.

Have you ever thought that Miss Violet Matthews would ever marry Mr. William Perkins? Well, that is exactly what is going to happen. Mr. Perkins will work on the farm while his wife keeps the house.

Miss Thelma Young, better known as "Dean Acheson" will attend law school in preparation for her career as Ambassador to Spain.

In 1956, Miss Annie Williams will have completed her course in Journalism and will become the editor of the "Among the Colored Column" in the Washington Daily News. Pauline Gibbs will be nursing in the Harlem Hospital.

Miss Josephine Holley, who is most sophisticated and always happy, will take music as a career. She will be the next "Margaret Truman". Following her in a music career we will have Miss Ethel Downing who will be a second "Hazel Scott," with her piano.

Who-o-ee! What would happen if Mr. Wm. Coward decided to become a bachelor. He might, who knows?

Mr. William Price, better known in the future as Rev. Price, will become the pastor of the largest church in the city. His sermon every Sunday morning will be "Women". Due to his temper, he will not be fortunate enough to enter matrimony.

Guess who this is? A gentleman directing an orchestra. This is none other than Director Cleaveland Harris and James Downing, Jesse Hawkins, Mayhew Marshall and William Midgette. They will play for the President's Ball in 1960.

Mr. Charlie Austin will be a professor at Fisk University in 1965.

Miss Ella Morris and Miss Rebecca Pierce are working at their Alma Mater. Miss Morris is librarian and Miss Pierce is director of dramatics.

Of all things, Mr. James Moore will be the world's Heavyweight Champion in 1960.

The twins, Frances and Annie St. Clair will be housewives and living in Bath, North Carolina.

Wait! Wait! Who is the girl refereeing the game between Washington High and Hillside High. She is none other than Miss Velma Smith.

Here are two playful young girls who never have time to be still one minute, unless they are reading a love story. I couldn't be speaking of anyone but Miss Rosa Moore and Miss Mary Rodgers.

I see two lovely ladies with pleasing personalities who are graduate nurses. They are Miss Virginia Reddick and Miss Evelyn Hawks.

Fred Dudley will be taking Jackie Roberson's place in baseball in 1965.

O yes, who do you think has accomplished a great deal in becoming one of the best drummers of 1958? Having played in the famous bands of Erskine Hawkins, and Louis Jordan, he is now with Duke Ellington, in the person of Charlie Smith, Jr.

Miss Doris Chapman who has always been a quiet reserved young lady will in 1967, become president of Bethune-Cookman College.

Miss Clara Ore, who is well known for her ability to sew, will live on a farm with her husband.

To be a nurse has been her desire. In 1955, she will finally reach her goal. She is none other than Mrs. Grace Flowers.

If you should have to come to Washington and need the aid of a beautician, look for Roberson's Beauty Salon, owned and operated by Miss Velma Roberson.

Great lovers of sports, Miss Willie Daniels and her brother, Mr. John Daniels, are enjoying their work as coaches at Eppes High School in Greenville. With John's "Rocket 88" they are able to commute daily.

Who do you think will become comedians in Silas Green's Minstrel? Why of course it couldn't be any one else but Mr. Willie Moore and Mr. Deroy Moore.

Mr. Freddie Harris, a nonchalant boy in High School, is now in the army. He likes it so well he plans to make it a career.

Guess who this is? A young lady who loves books and is forever spending her time in the library, will attend college and return to P. S. Jones High to take Mrs. Baylor's place. Of course, it's none other than Miss Bertha Harper.

Mr. John Perry, who is extremely interested in sports, will finally lay everything aside and become coach for the Yellow Jackets.

Here is the playful young fellow who never has time to be still one minute, unless it is to talk to a girl. I couldn't possibly be speaking of anyone but Mr. John Rodgers.

The one and only Miss Odell Price, the baby of the class, will some day have a great deal of money. She will someday operate a Finance Company. Most of her patrons will be her classmates.

In 1983 you will have the honor of seeing Miss Lula Mae Bailey on the television show, playing in the show "My Friend Irma."

As this was the last of the collection, when the inventor pulled the photo out, he closed the Prophoscope with a click and rose from his chair.

"The revelations are all in," he said with a smile, and in a few moments he bowed himself out, and I have not seen him since. As to the truth of these revelations, time, the great revealer can alone answer that wonder.

Class Poem

FAREWELL!

Farewell, P. S. Jones High School,
As we travel the avenue of life's highway;
We'll always remember your golden rule.
And do our best to give you credit always.

Farewell, Principal, Faculty and Friends;
May we do the things in life worth-while,
That will make you proud of our successful trends;
And think of fifty-two with a lovely smile.

If we could raise the curtain of our future flight,
And see up life's future highway,
Would we clap our hands and smile with delight;
Or hang our heads in regret and dismay?

Since we are unable to unfold the future,
We will strengthen our ambition and face the task;
We will say goodbye and make our departure,
With a determination to win at last.

Farewell P. S. Jones High School Farewell,
As we sail out on the briny deep:
Farewell P. S. Jones High School Farewell,
The principles of you, we'll forever keep.

Dorothy Jones

Class Song

(Tune: "Loveliest Night of the Year")

Now that we are through,
With our studies at P. S. Jones High;
School days are o'er,
So we'll end with a big goodbye.

Now it's time to leave,
Our principal and teachers so dear;
Cheer up and don't grieve,
It's the loveliest night of the year.

Cheer up old school and smile,
Oh how we hate to leave you behind;
Cheer up, Cheer up schoolmates,
In our memory you will always shine.

Dear Alma Mater goodbye,
The time is almost near;
Thy spirit we will admire,
It's the loveliest night of the year.
